Rules for your scout gnome

1. Name your gnome. Make sure you write down the name and put it in your wallet or purse so you can remember it.
2. Scout gnomes can't talk but they are great listeners. They were trained at the international bartender's school and they will listen to all of your grumbles and bullshit. You can also tell them the same complaint, story, or joke over and over and they don't mind.
3. You can touch your scout gnome. Just don't pull too hard on their beard. It doesn't hurt them but it might rip off. If you do rip off the beard or break your gnome you can surgically repair it with any quality glue.
4. Your gnome doesn't report back to anyone. If information that you told your gnome gets back to your friends, enemies, spouse, significant other, or the IRS, it wasn't your gnome. If you do take out the information leak on your gnome it can be surgically repaired with any quality glue.
5. Your scout gnome doesn't move every night. It will remain where you put it so if you can't find it right away keep looking. It's just like your phone or car keys.
6. There are many activities you can do with your gnome. He likes to do whatever you like to do. So have a drink, watch tv, read a book, or go for a ride. Enjoy your companion!
